'Do you think that Mr. Plummer's activity in politics had anything to do with the failure?"

"Nothing whatever, Mr. Plummer never let his political engagements interfere in the slightest degree with his business interests. He was one of the hardest and most indefatigable of workers. He was usually on hand every morning before 9 o'clock, and worked early and late.
Politics had nothing to do with it." The announcement in THE EVENING Wonin yesterday, of the failure of the big wholesale dry-goods firm of John F. Plummer & Co., caused a genuine sensation in trade circles.

The firm, which dealt almost exclusively in domestic woolien goods, did an imnse business, estimated at more than $3,000,000 a year, and was the selling agent for some of the largest woollen man ufacturing corporations in the country.

The bankrupt firm's liabilities are variously estimated from $1,000,000 to $1,200,000, with assets placed at about the same figures, although it is impossible to say at the present time whether they will realize what is expected.

John F. Plummer, Albert T. Plummer, and William S. Darling compose the firm. It was formed in January, 1885. John F. Plummer had been a member of the firm of Pomeroy & Plummer since 1866. It is said that this firm was heavily involved in the failure of Ferdinand Meyer & Co. in 1883.

According to a prominent merchant in the woollen trade of this city this latest failure is due to the stagnation which has prevailed for two years past in all branches of the domestic woollen goods

The recent agitation by woollen manufacturers and wool-growers, which has resulted in a proposed increase of duties all around in the tariff bill now before Congress, was expected to be of great benefit to the trade. HAGAN WORKING FOR FAME

Mayor Grant Praises His Work on the Snow and Slush.

"I can honestly say that I am quite satisfied with the work which the Street-Cleaning Department did last night," said Deputy and Acting Commissioner Hagan to-day.

He had been up all night spurring his forces to exert themselves in removing terday's storm, and his efforts had resulted satisfactorily, "Of course we didn't remove all the snow," said he. "but the reason for that is that we could not hire sufficient carts to accomplish that end. Every foreman was directed to employ as many carts as he possibly could, and the result was that not only carts but many trucks and drays were forced into service. " We did not remove all the snow which he had piled up even, but the only

"The actual amount of snow removed I cannot even estimate. The force was engaged at the work until 4 o'clock this morning, and very few reports have yet been received.

"The public can estimate the amount as well as I when it knows that all of Broadway south of Thirty-fifth street was cleaned, as were also Nassau, Wall, Broad, Chambers, Cortlandt, Liberty, Barclay and Fulton streets, Park Row, Exchange place and Madison, Union and Hanover sources.

"But the best of it all is," continued Mr. Hagan, "that there was only the usual force of men engaged in doing this work.
"We shall continue the work to-day, rest on his oars content with last night's work, but set sweeping machines at work in Madison and Union squares this morning to make that work complete.

Mayor Grant was astisfied with Deputy Commissioner Hagan's work.

'Of course I was interested in the result of the Acting Commissioner's first encounter with a snowstorm," said he, "and I kept my cyes open on my way down to the Hall this morning. I must say that I was more than pleased with the appearance of the streets. Mr. Hagan must have done an immense amount of work last night."

'I never saw more vigor displayed in work last night."

"I never saw more vigor displayed in such an emergency." said Commissioner of Public Works Gitroy, this morning. "The principal streets were cleared of snow in an incredibly short space of time. To do this either Mr. Hagan must have had a very large force of men at work or he got more than the usual amount of work out of the ordinary force for such occasions."

BEWAILED, BUT ALL SAFE.

No Fear that Hoch's Family Was Burned on Eldridge Street.

It was at 165 Eldridge street this time. It is a tenement, four stories high, and it caught fire about midnight. The fire was on the third floor, where Joseph Levy carries on a tailoring business and lives with his wife and little ones. On the floor above Simon Hoch, a pantaloons-maker, his wife and three children live. His brother Hermann lives with them.

Hermann got out of the house right away, but did not see what became of the rest of the family. When he had got over his fright and sought, but could not find them in the throng from the neighboring teneuents, which by that time crowded the police lines, the conclusion that they had "We shall continue the work to-day, keeping crossings swept and sewer culverts cleared."

The appropriation for clearing the streets of snow was enhausted, but the Deputy Commissioner said that he expected the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to provide for that contingency by a transfer at to-morrow's meeting.

He declared that he was not going to rest on his oars content with last night's work, but set sweeping machines at work in Madison and Union squares this morning to make that work complete.

Mayor Grant was satisfied with Deputy Commissioner Hagan's work.

"Of course I was interested in the result of the Acting Commissioner's first encounter with a snowstorm," said he, "and i kent my eyes one on my way." It is the third time crowded the police lines, which by that time crowded the police lines, be jumped to the conclusion that they had been burned up, and walled so histerly that a peroic effort was made to rescue the family. In a few moments it reached quite to the roof, and the ballway was filled with frightenned guests on route for the street. They had not much time to get out, but happily the flames found free vent through the shart and left the hall and stairs clear of smoke during the brief moments of excitament. Everybody got out all right.

The firemen found the core of the building a seathing furnace. Things looked so threatening at first that they sent for a double complement of fire appearatus.

The half a dozen engines made a little river of the shaft that soon dislocated the first. It was out in half an hour, and had wrocked only the rooms looking on the shaft. The fire is supposed to have broken out in a closet in the ladies parlor on the first floor. About 65, 600 damage was done to the building and furniture and belongings of a few guests.

Mrs. Florence Case, owner of the hotel, is insured in the Ætua Insurance Company, of Hartford, for $6,000.
